

VARSIITY BEGINS WORK FOR GAME WITH SOLDIERS

Alma Contest Saturday Is Not Considered in Training of Notre Dame Eleven—Rockne's Appearance Cheers.

Coach Harper has already begun active preparations for the Army game. Despite the rain Monday the Notre Dame football squad ran signals for an hour and a half, being obliged to use the gym because of the inclement weather. All the men came through Saturday's fierce game in splendid shape so that a big squad turned out for practice.

Gushurst will be kept permanently at end. The showing of the husky Corbette in the South Dakota battle has confirmed Harper in the opinion that "Gus" is just the man to use as a running mate for Capt. Rockne. Cause of the fact that Gushurst will be worked regularly at end, Kelleher, who had been playing that position till he was taken sick over a week ago, will be again returned to the backfield. Both Kelleher and Finegan are capable halfbacks but owing to injury and sickness neither has had much chance of late to show his ability.

Westerners Are Strong. The Finegan broke into the South Dakota fray in the third quarter and put up a splendid game. Kelleher's reputation as a halfback is well known at Notre Dame and the two westerners should give the regulars, Fliska and Berger, a good chase for the back positions. Kelleher will most likely be used as utility man for he can play end, as well as any position in the backfield. The little Irishman has been out of the game for some time. He sprained his ankle a week and a half ago and then was laid up with the grippe. He will be out again toward the end of this week and will get into the Alma game Saturday.

The Notre Dame coaches will work hard this week, and next, to eliminate all weaknesses that have been revealed in the team's play to date. All the old formations will be carefully revised for Harper observed several times in Saturday's game that the Dakota players were easily solving the Notre Dame attack. New plays will be given the regulars during the next few days and long signal drills will be the order for every practice. Line Coach Edwards, who has thus far accomplished wonders with the light and blue line, will devote special attention to individual players from now on, so that the Notre Dame forwards will be in the best of shape for the big battles next month.

WELSH KNOCKED OUT BY A FOUL BLOW

Milburn Saylor Sends Englishman to Floor But Referee Rules Against Him.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 21.—Fredie Welsh, English lightweight champion, was awarded the decision over Milburn Saylor of Indianapolis, in the ninth round of their scheduled 12 round bout Monday night, after he had been knocked out by a blow which the referee declared foul.

Saylor was warned at the opening of the ninth round against hitting low, but continued his tactics and finally sent the Britisher to the floor with a stiff blow which landed in the groin.

After a heated discussion, during which both sides claimed the decision, Referee Foley stated that the blow was foul and gave Welsh the decision. The club doctor, after examining Welsh, said he had been hit in the groin.

HIGH IN SIGNAL PRACTICE

Gold and Blue Gridiron Warriors Work Out in "Gym."

Signal practice was held in the gymnasium by the high school squad Monday, beginning preparation for the game with Lagrange here Saturday afternoon.

Coach Metzler considers Lagrange as one of the hardest opponents the locals will be called upon to meet and promises to give the team some hard work.

Followers of the tan and blue look for a shakeup in the squad following Saturday's game with St. Joseph. Cottrell, who showed up strong in that game may be used at left half in Shanafelt's place. Shanafelt injured his shoulder in the game, and Metzler thinks the layoff will do him good. Dally, Scott and Martin will try to beat Cottrell out of his job, and any of them may land it.

Candidates for the basketball team worked out in the gymnasium also. Practice will be indulged in during Monday for about three weeks, when Coach Metzler plans to institute daily workouts.

THERE'S A MORAL TO THIS IF YOU CAN FIND IT.—By Goldberg

LEW POP LIKELIEST OF LOCAL FIGHTERS

In 1910, 1911 and early 1912 the boxing game bloomed in South Bend. But in all that time not one local boxer of class was brought to light. A number displayed their goods in the preliminaries, but not one could show enough to warrant development.

Eddie Blankert was about the best of the boys who appeared in the shows of those years; at least, he was the only one to stick with the game. He has failed to make good to date, however, although he is an earnest worker and has plenty of confidence. He faced about the cleverest glove wielder in his experience the other night at Niles and really had no chance whatever with Danny Ramona, a Chicago Greek.

Joe Homeland, who has been seen in local rings on several occasions, was advertised to fight Blankert, but he brought a slender boy with him to act as his substitute. Blankert's manager demurred at matching his man with the unknown, who appeared, however, to be out of training. After much heating about the bush as regards weight, the round was over. Blankert and tipped the beam within half a pound of each other.

Blankert had but three night's work, but he looked to be in good shape and his followers predicted victory. Eddie started with a rush with the 18-year-old Greek coolly blocking his blows. Before the round was over Blankert had been caught unawares on the breakaway with a punch to the jaw. From that moment Romana rained sledgehammer blows on Eddie's jaw at every opportunity. He put him down in the third round just before the gong, which saved Blankert being counted out. Dr. Bonine, who was refereeing, stopped the bout. Of the young man who had hatched pugilistic aspirations since the fights here Lew Pop, a light weight, looks to be the likeliest. Bobby Cullip is another little man who likes to battle and appears to be a comer if he receives the proper training. He is too small for Pop, as was demonstrated at the Niles exhibition.

Pop appears to be a natural fighter. He doesn't know how to use to best advantage the punches he possesses, but is promising. He has a kick in either hand and goes into cover like a cat within its shell when in bad hole. He looks older because of a heavy growth of whiskers but his age is said to be but 21 years. Above all things he loves to fight.

Lew was somewhatasperated at Niles at the attitude of the crowd when it cheered an apparent rally by Cullip. Pop took every swing on his gloves, but the crowd thought Bob was landing. "Never touched me," Lew turned aside to snap at them.

Young Cullip displayed possession of courage by his willingness to swap punches with Pop, for the latter has a deadly sting in either hand, while he is much stronger.

The boys do most of their workouts at the central fire station.

"BEAT ILLINI" SLOGAN

Indiana Students Thirst for Revenge on Champagne Eleven.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 21.—In their thirst for revenge on Illinois the Indiana university students are making the coming game at Indianapolis next Saturday the chief topic of conversation. Everybody is talking about the big game and the crowd that will accompany the team on a 16-coach special train next Saturday morning at 8 o'clock promises to be the largest ever sent from here to Washington park. That this contest promises to be the greatest reunion of faculty, alumni, and undergraduates in the history of Indiana university seems to be assured from the amount of enthusiasm shown.

On the playing side of the game it may be said that the crimson players are rounding into excellent shape. Those who have had the pleasure of seeing the team work out during the last week are ready to testify that the men have made great progress since the Chicago game.

Each year the Chippewas elect a delegation to go to Washington to present to congress legislation desired by the Chippewas. To be a delegate is one of the highest aims of reservation Indians.
